

The Family Guide to Dyslexia Discussion Cards - Primary

Print. Cut up. Play. Talk.

Do people with dyslexia need to work harder?	Do you ever have problems pronouncing words?	Should parents check children's homework?
If someone offered to tidy your room, would you be pleased or horrified?	Do you know your multiplication tables?	Do you work better when there is noise or music or in silence?
If you had one superpower what would it be?	Do you know your mobile or house phone number?	What do you like most about yourself?
Is it a good idea to have extra help with reading and writing?	Do you find you often don't have the things you need in your school bag?	Do you know your alphabet?
Does anyone else in your family show signs of dyslexia?	When was the last time you caught yourself day dreaming?	Do you find it easier to read off a screen or a page?
If your house caught fire, what two things would you save?	Do you get confused following instructions?	Do you ever write or draw reminders for yourself?
Do you make friends easily?	Does reading make your eyes hurt?	Do you get extra time to finish tasks at school?
Do you think your parents worry too much about your school work?	Do people accuse you of day dreaming?	Do you learn better by listening or looking?
Is correct spelling over-rated?	Do you have problems following directions that involve left and right?	Can you name three famous people with dyslexia?
Would you rather be educated at school or at home?	Do you miss out words and phrases in your writing?	When you hear stories do you picture them in your head?
